

This Week

As well as having another week of poetry, Austen Class enjoyed the carousel of activities done on World Book Day on Thursday. Dressed as book characters, they explored books through art, music, drama and crafts. A fun day was had by all!

This week we reinforced the importance of learning our times tables alongside their corresponding division facts as I mentioned during Parents Evening this week. We looked at how to divide by 2 using partitioning and halving. We also continued to look at how we can divide on a number line with large numbers.

Thank You all Austen Class Parents who were able to attend the Parents Evening consultations. They were very fruitful evenings.

Austen Class Newsletter

Friday 3rd March 2017

The Austen Class Small Act of Kindness is to share some art. We have painted some Spring pictures using water colours. In the coming weeks, these paintings will be displayed in our local Sainsburys. The idea is to bring a little Spring cheer to our local community. Please do take the time to go and see your child's work.

Pre- Learning

Next week is Science Week. Austen Class will be attending a workshop all about teeth. As part of their pre-learning, please take the time to research teeth and their function with your child

Let's celebrate!

Proud Cloud: Austen Class - for their great poetry performance of The Quangle Wangle and Stream School during the Poetry Recitals

Fine Diner: Brooke - For keeping the table clean
